

TABLE OF CONTENTS

---

Foreword.....	ix
List of 'Pickaxe' Operations.....	x
Map of 'Pickaxe' Operations.....	xi
Introduction.....	1
Chapter One 'Set Europe Ablaze'—With Soviet Help.
SOE and NKVD in 1941.....	13
Churchill's Bait: Sir Stafford Cripps.....	14
'The Russians Want a Bit of Leading'—the British Initiative .....	17
Stalin's Desperate Gamble—Why Moscow Responded .....	19
Drawing Up Sabotage Targets—The September 1941
Agreements.....	26
British Plans to Recruit NKVD Agents.....	31
Chapter Two Officers of the 'Invisible Front'.....	35
Perpetrators and Survivors—NKVD Officers.....	36
Pavel Mikhailovich Fitin .....	37
Gaik Badalovich Ovakimyan .....	39
Vasily Mikhailovich Zarubin.....	44
Alexander Mikhailovich Korotkov.....	46
Ivan Andreyevich Chichaev .....	47
Andrei Grigorevich Graur .....	49
'Irregulars'—SOE Officers .....	50
Sir Colin Gubbins.....	51
Charles Milnes Gaskell .....	51
Leopold H Manderstam.....	52
The Coddled Spy—George Alexander 'Pop' Hill .....	52
Living Conditions in Moscow .....	59
Pigeons, Protégés and Honey Traps.....	60

Chapter Three The 'Pickaxe' Scheme .....	69
Pickaxe I, II, 'Rum', 'Whiskey', 'Barsac' and 'Burgundy' (1941–42).....	73
The First Radio Deception Game .....	78
The Arctic Convoys: The Fate of the 'Ocean Voice' .....	80
Controversy about France: 'Ararat' and 'Apache' .....	82
Operations 'Tonic', 'Soda-Water' and the ' Funkspiele ' .....	85
The NKVD Threat to End the Collaboration (January–December 1943) .....	90
Hill's Eternal Optimism.....	92
The 'Coffee' Mission .....	93
Operation 'Etna'—Italy.....	96
From Drinks to Mountains—Operations 'Everest', 'Rigi', 'Jungfrau' and 'Eiger' .....	98
 Chapter Four 'Too Honest to be a Spy'—Willy and Nico Kruyt.....	105
A Christian Socialist Minister.....	106
The Roving Revolutionary .....	111
Moving to Moscow.....	115
The NKVD Recruitment.....	117
The Arctic Convoy Journey .....	119
St. Paul's and Madame Tussaud's—In Britain .....	120
Willy Kruyt's Diary .....	122
The Parachute Drop—'Barsac' and 'Burgundy' .....	126
Betrayal and Arrest.....	127
Prisoner at Breendonck Fortress.....	129
In Berlin-Moabit.....	130
Nico Kruyt's Mission.....	132
The Photo from Vienna .....	134
Hunted by the Soviets.....	138
 Chapter Five Martyr of Socialism—The Legend of Bruno Kühn .....	143
'Side by Side with Soviet Partisans'—A Legend is Born .....	144
Parachute Agent in Holland—Bruno Kühn's True Story .....	148
Spies, Lies and the Making of a Martyr .....	154
What Did Lotte Ulbricht Know? .....	157

Chapter Six Bhagat Ram—Quintuple Agent (Operation ‘Silver’) .....	161
India and Afghanistan in British Calculations.....	161
German Foreign Intelligence in Central Asia .....	164
S.C. Bose and Bhagat Ram.....	166
The Escape to Berlin, January 1941 .....	167
Bose in Berlin, Bhagat Ram in Kabul.....	168
The Outbreak of War and the NKVD Recruitment of Ram .....	169
The Double-Cross Game Begins .....	171
Otroshchenko’s Check on Ram, April 1942.....	173
An Unprecedented Offer .....	174
Reasons for Reluctance: British India’s Prior Knowledge of Bhagat Ram .....	178
The Operation Continues (1942–43).....	179
Between a Rock and a Hard Place—SOE between SIS and NKVD....	183
The Soviet Attempt to Recruit Karl Rasmuss, 1943.....	187
German Suspicions and the End of ‘Silver’ .....	188
The Evaluation of ‘Silver’ .....	191
 Chapter Seven Casablanca East. Joint Anglo-Soviet
Counter-Intelligence in Iran.....	195
German Intelligence Activities in Iran.....	199
‘Long Jump’ or ‘Bogus Plot’? The Allied Conference in Tehran (November 1943) .....	200
The Vaziri Case .....	204
The KISS Operation.....	205
An Answer from Berlin.....	206
KISS as a Joint Double Agent .....	208
The End of the KISS Operation .....	210
KISS Revealed.....	211
Change of Mind: British Suspicions .....	211
 Chapter Eight The Toothless Snake—Operation Mamba .....	215
Manderstam’s Plan .....	217
Strange Prisoners: D-Day.....	220
The Threat of Repatriation.....	222
The Selection Process .....	223
Profiles of ‘Mamba’ Agents.....	224
Discipline Issues.....	227
Four Agents for a Reconnaissance Mission.....	228

The NKVD Veto .....	229
Escape to Freedom .....	233
Chapter Nine The British Donkey Between a Bear and a Buffalo—SOE in 1944–45 .....	239
Donovan Steps In—The OSS-NKVD Collaboration.....	240
No Address Necessary—The End of the Collaboration in 1945 .....	243
Successful Soviet Penetration of SOE .....	248
Chapter Ten The Complete Triangle—The Gestapo Hunt for Allied Agents .....	251
The Set-Up of German Counter-Intelligence .....	253
The ' Funkspiel ' .....	256
The ' Funkspiel ' in Western Europe .....	259
Vienna Radio Games: Moscow's Plan to Assassinate Nazi Leaders ...	262
The Gestapo Knowledge of NKVD Methods .....	265
Fatal Soviet Mistakes .....	267
Knowledge is Power: the Gestapo Contribution to the Cold War.....	268
Recruitment instead of Prosecution—Gestapo Officers in Postwar Intelligence Services .....	271
Chapter Eleven Lessons from the Collaboration .....	277
Strategic Asymmetries: SOE and NKVD .....	283
The Significance of 'Pickaxe' .....	288
Anglo-Soviet Successes in India and Afghanistan .....	290
Anglo-Soviet Intelligence Cooperation in Iran .....	291
The Truth about the 'Red Orchestra' .....	291
The Effects of the Collaboration on the Cold War.....	295
Heroes or Traitors? Rescuing Agents from Obscurity .....	298
Selected Images.....	301
Table of Pickaxe Agents.....	323
Glossary .....	325
Bibliography .....	327
Index.....	333