

Contents

INTRODUCTION	1
The Black Imagination and the Genres : Science Fiction, Futurism and the Speculative SANDRA JACKSON & JULIE MOODY-FREEMAN
1. The Future of Race in Afro-Futurist Fiction MADHU DUBEY	15
2. Brave Black Worlds: Black Superheroes as Science Fiction Ciphers ADILIFU NAMA	32
3. "Explorers"— Star Trek: Deep Space Nine MICHEAL CHARLES POUNDS	47
4. Connecting to a Future Community: Storytelling, the Database, and Nalo Hopkinson's Midnight Robber ALISA K. BRAITHWAITE	81
5. Science Fiction, Feminism and Blackness: The Multifaceted Import of Octavia Butler's Work SHANNON GIBNEY	100

6. The Absence of Meat in Oankali Dietary Philosophy: An Eco-Feminist-Vegan Analysis of Octavia Butler's Dawn AMIE BREEZE HARPER	111
7. Speculative Poetics: Audre Lorde as Prologue for Queer Black Futurism ALEXIS PAULINE GUMBS	130
8. "Why white people feel they got to mark us?": Bodily Inscription, Healing and Maternal "Plots of Power" in Jewelle Gomez's "Louisiana 1850" MARIE-LUISE LOEFFLER	146
9. The Unshakable Intent to Commit Genocide: Walter Mosely's The Wave , 9/11 and Politics out of Context BRANDON KEMPNER	166
10. Techno-Utopia and the Search for Saaraba (1989) DEBBIE OLSON	187
11. Towards a Black Science Fiction Cinema: The Slippery Signifier of Race and the Films of Will Smith STEPHANIE LARRIEUX	204
Contributors	221
Index	225